CHARLESTON, SOUTH CAROLINA

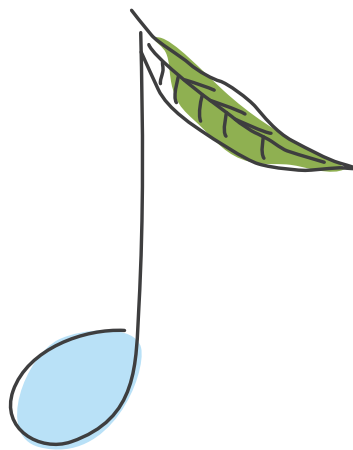

In 1795, the Lowcountry of South Carolina became the first place in the United States to grow tea.

Since then, tea has become a fixture of the South. It's the drink of choice at cafes and diners—the most tasted beverage on a restaurant's menu.

Dissatisfied with weak foodservice brands, we at Southern Harmony Tea® have created a tea that tastes the way iced tea is supposed to taste.

Bright. Crisp. Clean. No bite. Just pure, full tea flavor. Sip after sip. Glass after glass. Suddenly, iced tea has manners!

We craft Southern Harmony as carefully as a sweetgrass basket. Meticulously blended. Brewed with rich color and wine-like body. Better tasting tea. Would you expect anything less from a tea company in Charleston? We didn't think so!
